

An Intro to Zotero

Zotero is a free, open-source research tool that allows you to manage citations and build a searchable online research library. Using Zotero, you can annotate and organize your research documents. Zotero integrates with word processors, including Microsoft Word, so you can cite-as-you go.

Zotero works with the Firefox web browser

Zotero is a plug-in that extends what your Firefox browser can do. If you don't use Firefox, you can download this free, open-source web browser at :

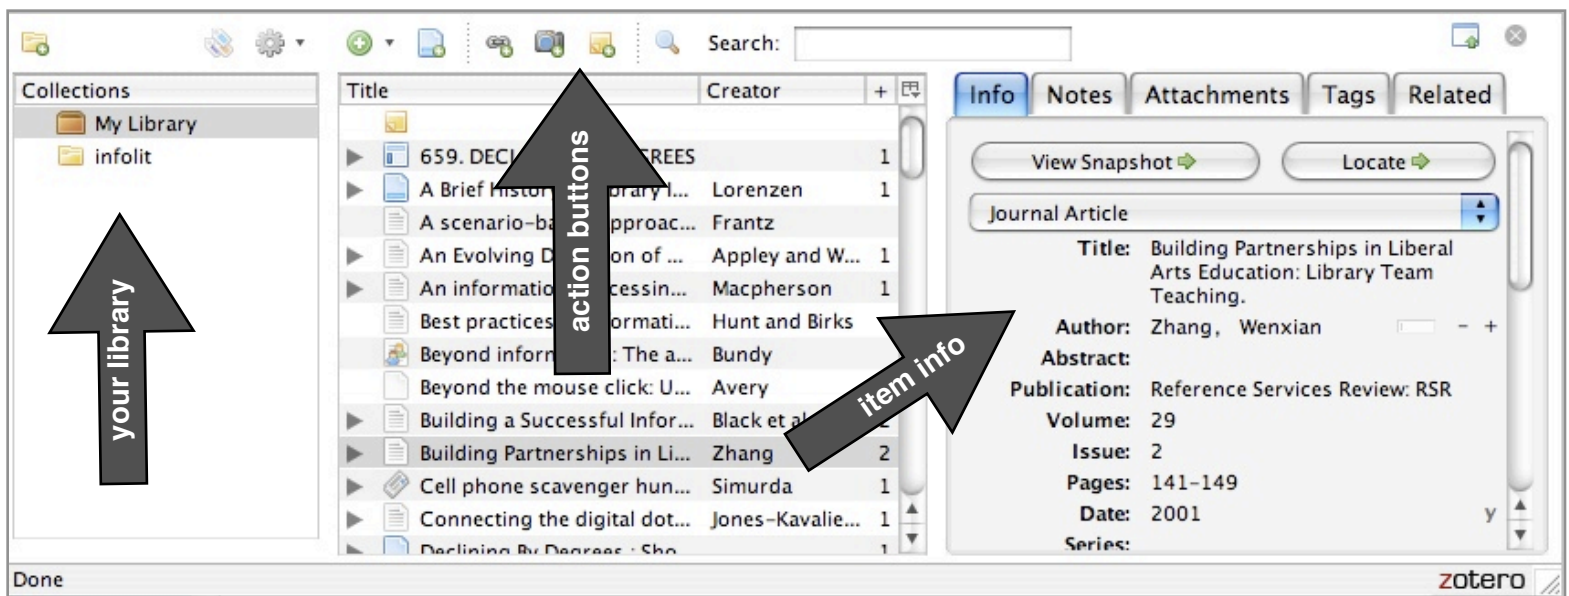

<http://www.mozilla.com/en-US/firefox/>

Zotero is free and open source

Click the button on the Zotero homepage to download and install the plug-in. You can also find tutorials and guides on the Zotero homepage, and a discussion forum where you can ask questions.

<http://www.zotero.org>

OSU Library databases that work with Zotero (as of 2/18/2008)

OSU Library Catalog

Web of Science (at the list level)

EbscoHost (at the list and article level)

Lexis-Nexis (at the article level)

Academic Search Premier

Biosis (via Ovid) – (at the list and article level)

Agricola

America: History & Life

IEEE (at the list level)

Business Source Premier

JStor (at the list level)

CINAHL

Dissertation Abstracts (at the list and article level)

Computer Source

EconLit

Education Research Complete

ERIC

Try these as well

GeoRef

PubMed

Inspec

GoogleScholar

Masterfile Premier

Amazon

Medline

Newspaper Source

Epicurious

PsycInfo

(and more)